Profile

Seán McCabe is an attorney in Anderson Kill's New York office and a member of the firm's Insurance Recovery and White Collar Defense groups.

Seán counsels individual and corporate policyholders on a wide variety of coverage disputes, including claims involving first-party property damage, cyber crimes, criminal acts, abuse, environmental liability, and general liability. He has also played a key role in trial preparation and legal research on federal criminal cases arising out of the Southern District of New York, including major white collar criminal cases, conspiracy, and RICO cases.

Seán has had a key role in trial preparation and legal research on federal criminal cases arising out of the Southern District of New York, including major white collar criminal cases, conspiracy, and RICO cases. He also represents policyholders in insurance coverage disputes.

Before entering private practice, Seán worked at the Philadelphia District Attorney's Office as part of an LL.M. Program of Temple University. He also interned with the Hon. Charles J. Cunningham III in Philadelphia, who presided over state criminal and civil matters. In Ireland, Seán worked with a large, multidisciplinary firm where he served as a summer associate for a partner, focusing on commercial, criminal, and malpractice litigation. He is admitted to practice in New York State Court and Federal District Courts for the Southern and Eastern Districts of New York.

A native of Ireland, Seán graduated from the University College of Cork School of Law in Ireland with a Bachelors of Law magna cum laude, concentrating on International Criminal Law. During his studies, he spent a year at Temple University's Beasley School of Law in its LL.M. program.
